Stories Behind Traditions

The aim of the project is to share information about our countries, hometowns, schools, culture and traditions. The use of English, with a real communicative purpose, will encourage our students to learn English with more enthusiasm. We are going to use a various set of ICT tools to make our project challenging and more interesting.

Classroom number 4

First of all, I'd like to welcome you to my blog. My intentions to make it a place for cherishing great memories of working with school children. Here you'll find some tips, projects done by my pupils, their essays and poems, video clips (I don't know if it's me but my pupils really enjoy singing), and things that can be interesting and useful.

School Library Books

A Little Princess - F.H Burnett

A Mirror, a Carpet & a Lemon - Jenny Dooley

Alissa - C. J. Moore

Anne of Green Gables - L. M. Montgomery

As the Inspector Said - John Escott

Brat Farrar - J. Tey

Chemical Secret - T. Vinary

Stories Behind Traditions

With a Romanian colleague, I started a project for 8-14-year-olds where they would share the information about their countries, hometowns, schools, culture and traditions. Since December, 13 other teachers from Italy, Greece, Poland, Turkey, Georgia and Portugal have joined the project and shared interesting videos, tasty recipes and lovely photos of their traditional costumes.

Amazing animals

My younger pupils just love making something with their hands and if they can use some modelling clay, their excitement has no end. Since our topic was Wild animals, I asked them to make their favourite ones for the others to guess and to practise descriptions. Two classes used modelling clay to make their favourite animals and the other two made collages.

Here's the result:
